Research online with your local library

The IRISH NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE is the world's largest online database of Irish Newspapers from which it is possible to search, retrieve and view Ireland's past in the exact format it was published. With many of Ireland's most prominent regional, daily and out of print titles, membership allows access to the most comprehensive and complete Irish newspaper archive available.

The IRISH TIMES ARCHIVE is a complete reproduction of every page of The Irish Times from 1859. Every issue published is now available to view exactly as it was printed. Crucially, it is easily searchable using key words or dates and articles can then be printed off or downloaded to your computer.

JSTOR The Ireland Collection on JSTOR, developed in cooperation with Queen's University Belfast, is an interdisciplinary collection of journals and other materials. It contains more than 70 titles, including journals with moving walls between 1 and 5 years and ceased journals from the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries. Over 200 monographs and 2,500 manuscript pages will also be included. Complementing JSTOR's existing collections, the Ireland Collection adds titles and resources across the arts, humanities, and sciences in disciplines such as music, art, history, literature, archaeology, mathematics, and biology. The content is international in scope, while also providing a rich focus on Ireland. The Ireland Collection was created with funding from the JISC Digitisation Programme.

Please note: Tipperary County Council Library Service has subscribed to the Irish Newspaper Archive, Irish Times Archive and JSTOR's archival journal collections on behalf of its users.

These archives can be accessed for free from our public computers in all our branches.
